

MU SART: SEXUAL ASSAULT RESPONSE TEAM

FAQs

What is SART?

SART is the Misericordia Sexual Assault Response Team. SART exists to provide help to MU students that have been victims of any kind of sexual assault or relationship violence. The SART team operates a 24 hour hotline and are prepared to respond immediately to a student victim in need.

Who are SART members?

SART members are volunteer staff and faculty that believe in supporting students that have been the victim of sexual assault. SART members are not trained counselors, but have undergone SART and Safe Space training.

Who can call SART for help?

Any student that has been, or is concerned they may become the victim of sexual assault can reach out to SART. CAs and other students can also contact SART on behalf of a student victim. Faculty and staff can also contact SART for advice concerning a student.

When can I call SART?

The SART hotline is available 24 hours a day while classes are in session. It does not matter how long ago the assault occurred - students can call for help whenever they are ready. While rape kits and hospital treatment may only be an option in the first 72 hours following an assault, SART is always able to provide information and referral to other support services in the weeks and months after an assault has occurred.

How can SART help?

SART's primary concern is the safety of the student and getting them to the right support services both on and off campus.

- Transport and accompaniment to hospital for medical treatment and/or a rape kit
- Information and referral to confidential support services on campus
- Information and referral of off-campus victims services, such as the Victims Resource Center
- A listening and supportive ear

Is the SART hotline confidential?

No, the SART hotline is not confidential. SART members are mandated by law to report instances of abuse to the Dean of Students. However, SART members can make referrals and arrangements for students to speak with one of the confidential support services on campus.

How do I contact SART?

You can contact SART by calling or texting 570 417 8888. The SART hotline number is available 24 hours a day while classes are in session.
